Production Engine Remanufacturers Association Membership Requirements

To apply for membership in PERA you must qualify as either a supplier or remanufacturer, conduct your business in a manner consistent with the PERA Credo, and complete the application on the reverse side.

Remanufacturer Members: Any person, partnership or corporation possessing complete automotive or industrial engine remanufacturing facilities and actively engaged in the engine remanufacturing business, whose monthly production is at least 25 engines, whose firm bears a good reputation in its market area for the quality of its merchandise and good service and has a sound and fair warranty policy, is eligible to become a remanufacturer member. The company must have been in business for at least one year under its present organization. It would be helpful to attach a letter of recommendation from an existing PERA member.

PERA Credo

The Production Engine Remanufacturers Association is an association of individuals and firms who are remanufacturing internal combustion engines and their major components, or are supplying necessary components, supplies and equipment required in the remanufacturing process.

The goal of the association is to provide its members with the opportunity to exchange the ideas, methods and procedures necessary to efficiently produce remanufactured products which are equal or superior to their original in quality and performance.

PERA adheres to and supports the premise that its members are dedicated to the highest business ethics, customer satisfaction, employee consideration and to the continual upgrading of the Engine Remanufacturing Industry.
